Wholesome and Sound Doctrine.

We commence the following synopsis taken from the St. Louis Republican of March 3, of Gov. Brosse' address to the Alumni of Washington University. It is full of wholesome and sound doctrine.

The speaker commenced as follows:

MR. PRESIDENT, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN.—The fathers of our government wisely decreed that titles of nobility and hereditary governing classes should not be known to our political institutions. That decree is solemnly recorded in the supreme law of the land, the constitution of the United States. Under that sacred charter of the rights of man, the will of the whole people, expressed through the ballot box in accordance with its provisions, must govern the nation. This principle and that constitution, Americans fondly hope shall endure forever. Newspapers, orators and statesmen have so often so ably discussed these and all related subjects, that any further inquiry in regard to them would seem to be if not absurd, entirely superfluous. And yet invited as I am to address the Alumni of this institution, and the other gentleman of wide culture and leading positions in society whom this interesting occasion has brought together, I shall make no apology for the effort I shall make to discuss the fundamental principles, to point out some of the dangers which, in my judgment, threaten our free institutions, and what can best promote the perpetuity of the constitution and the Glory of the Republic.

The speaker then proceeded to examine the causes of the rapid physical progress of the nation, and how far the nation can rely on these agencies permanently to promote the welfare of the republic. Among the influences which have aided the astonishing development of this country are railroads, telegraphs, the press and the ballot-box. In reference to the influence of an extensive railway system, the ablest minds of the old world, as well as the new, have taxed their highest powers to describe its varied and beneficial effect, and it may be doubted if it is yet properly appreciated. A St. Louis divine once remarked that the road, as a means of communication between distant parts of the country, might be taken as an index of the civilization and intellectual and moral vitality of the nation which built it. The grand old Romans bestowed the highest honors on those who built their famous roads, and as a distinguished honor called their emperor, Pontifex—a bridge builder. How incomparable is our railroad over all other modes of travel, modern or ancient! But have we nothing to fear from our railroads, and nothing to correct in their management? They afford the same transit to the philanthropist as to the thief or the murderer. In building railroads, the theory is that there is a virtual and equitable partnership between the owners and the people in the use and management of the roads, and the practice is to get the people along the line to subscribe large amounts of stock. This, from embarrassments and other causes, often falls into the hands of the larger owners and by mortgage the original stock is practically wiped out and a new company gets possession of the road at half its value. The speaker further illustrated the evils resulting from railroad speculations and the corruption of principle and practice often connected with railroad management. The railroad interest, if controlled by vicious and thoroughly wicked men, as is often the case, may become a national curse instead of a blessing. The influence of the telegraph was then considered. With all its wonderful power, it is also as subservient to man's vices as to his necessities, and it too becomes a blessing or a bane according to its use and management.

The ballot-box more than anything else lies at the foundation of our political institutions. Yet it is plain that the vicious man, the thief, the forger, the murderer must be controlled, and that crime must be published; but if the majority be depraved the constitution and laws become a mockery. Lord Macaulay in a letter to Hon. W. S. Randall of New York, said: "The day will come when in the State of New York a multitude of people, not one of whom has had more than half a breakfast or expects to have more than half a dinner, will choose a legislature. Is it possible to doubt what sort of a legislature will be chosen?" These conditions could scarcely be looked for in this country, but already in our great commercial metropolis enormous villainy and stupendous vice have for years held sway. The ballot-box to be a protector and promoter of national liberty and glory must be in the hands of virtuous and intelligent men. As to the influence of the press, there must be an equal purity and integrity, or it becomes a source of evil and managed for selfish interests. All of the powerful agents named being thus liable to abuse and to exercise an injurious influence, in what can the nation trust for its stability and glory? The best security is in education, and in elaborating this idea the speaker depicted the advantages of classic study and the lessons which history taught so valuable to America. But this education must not merely include secular studies. Moral, in connection with intellectual cultivation, can alone make a peaceful and in the broadest sense of the term, a useful citizen. So moral united with intellectual training can alone give peace, security and stability to a free people. In the words of Dr. Chalmers: "It is scholarship impregnated with piety that tells on the great mass of society."

Mr. Bross further discussed the subject, showing that in true culture, intermingled with the sweet morality and wholesome restraints of Christianity, was to be found the best and surest guarantees for our national stability and glory.

The audience manifested the most earnest applause and appreciation of the address, and listened to it with animated attention.

The address of Mr. Bross occupied over an hour in delivery, and at the close the company adjourned to an adjoining room, where preparations had been made for.

FRENCH PRAISE OF THE PRUSSIANS.—The present attitude of the Prussian Army elicits the following tribute of praise from the Press:

"However much we hate them, and however deep the abyss into which they have precipitated us, our enemies constrain us to bow before their marvelous tenacity and the incredible persistency with which they keep up that severe discipline and those habits of regular work among their soldiers which have been the true, the principal, nay, the only cause of their superiority. What an army and what soldiers! The victory they have obtained, unheard of in continuance and extent, has neither intoxicated nor enervated them. Masters of our forts and our armies, conquerors of a third of France, holding all our army under lock and key, and free to dictate conditions of peace to our unhappy country, the Prussians have not departed for a moment from their strictihabits. They still work, without respite, incessantly, and nothing is changed for them. They drill, they manœuvre, they learn and acquire finish daily. Parades, reviews, marches, shooting at a mark, all the details of military life go on for them as if the campaign were still in progress. They have cleaned our guns and packed them up, methodically ticketed, and all these cases have taken the road to Germany. Our cannons they have tried as they have been given up to them by degrees; they make trial of their frames every day, and this immense material of war is there ready to be sent to the other side of the Rhine, like our armies, like our treasures, like everything."

By Overland Telegraph.

[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

EASTERN DATES TO APRIL 3.

EUROPE.

Dispatches via London.

LONDON, April 3—P. M.—The Paris Commune has issued a decree arraigning Thiers, Picard, Favre, Dufour, Simon and Pithieu before the tribunal of the people, and ordering their property to be seized.

Another decree pronounces the separation of Church and State, suppresses religious bodies and abolishes National property.

The Foreign office to-day received dispatches from the British Legation at Pekin, 16th March, reporting all quiet in China.

WASHINGTON CITY.

The Ku-Klux Bill.

WASHINGTON, April 3—In the Senate Sherman's resolution instructing the Judiciary Committee to report a bill to abolish the Ku-Klux, being under consideration, Blair argued that the measure was an assumption of the power of Congress to punish a violation of State law. The House spent the entire day and evening session in the discussion of the bill.

A Blare from Blair's Trumpet.

WASHINGTON, April 3.—Alluding to the reconstruction acts Blair said that whenever the Supreme Court had any authority to pass upon any case connected with them it had invariably pronounced them unconstitutional, and Congress knowing they were unconstitutional passed an act to prevent the Supreme Court from passing directly upon its reconstruction measures. He said the Democratic party, while it believed these acts to be unconstitutional, did not, as had been charged, unite to overthrow them by force. The only means to which Democrats would resort were constitutional means.

Scott, interrupting, quoted from the Broadhead letter of Blair that the President elect should disperse the carpet-baggers by force.

Blair said he was not the Democratic party and the Democratic party was not Blair, and he repeated that the Democratic party had never threatened to use violent means to overthrow the constitutional acts of Congress. Congress He (Blair) believed that the President, having taken an oath to support the Constitution, should stand to it whether against Congress or against individuals; for he believed that Congress, violating the Constitution, was no more than a mob. He said that an army could be made to undo the work of usurpation, but no force would be necessary; if the army was withdrawn, the infamous carpet-bag governments would fall of themselves. He charged that the Republicans of North Carolina during the Presidential canvass of 1868 had, in an address, advised negroes to burn the barns of people who despised them on account of their politics.

Poole (interrupting) said the address there no such construction, and no sensible man could put such a construction upon it.

Blair said it was so regarded at the time, and he reviewed at length the condition of affairs in North and South Carolina, alleging that corruption, fraud and villainy reigned supreme. He quoted from the Republican papers of South Carolina articles severely commenting on the villainy of the Legislature, and also quoted the remarks of Governor Scott, "that one of the greatest curses afflicting South Carolina was a horde of unscrupulous adventurers from the North, coming there for plunder.

Sherman admitted that the Legislature of South Carolina had behaved shamefully, but that unless the Senator proposed some remedy he had no right to bring the matter in here.

Blair said he had a right to arraign this body for destroying local self government.

Sawyer said every one voted in South Carolina, and there were not over 2,500 in the State debarred from holding office under the 14th amendment; but the position of the Democratic party in South Carolina was such that no considerable number would accept a proffer of office, being influenced by the position of the Democratic party in the North, and by the Broadhead letter of the Senator to refuse office.

Blair continued reviewing the condition of other Southern States, crime in which he said had been enormously increased under Republican rule. Referring to the Yerger case which had been brought into the discussion by Sherman, Blair read from the statement of counsel to prove that the case had been kept out of the Supreme Court for fear of the reconstruction acts under which Yerger was commuted, would be declared unconstitutional. Without concluding his speech Blair gave way for an executive session, after which the Senate adjourned.

The House spent the entire day and evening session in the discussion of the Ku-Klux bill.

Republican Triumph in Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, April 3.—Davis, Republicans is elected Mayor by 2,500 majority. The vote is unusually heavy.

EASTERN STATES.

Republican Triumph in Connecticut.

HARTFORD, April 3.—All the towns are in but twelve. Estimating these at last year's vote, Jewell's majority will be 80. Kellogg is elected to Congress in the 2d District by 53 majority. In Mansfield, Jewell has 239, English 187, Sanford, Jewell, 331, English 342; Vernon, Jewell 545, English 337; Stamford, Jewell 766, English 662; Bridgeport, Jewell 1,718, English 2,063; Norwalk, Jewell 1,029, English 823; Hartford, Jewell 9,639, English, 9,791; New Haven, Jewell 10,373, English 11,804; New London, Jewell 5,-130, English 4,637; Fairfield, Jewell 7,724, English 6,352; Windham, Jewell 3,474, English 2,-070; Middlesex, Jewell 3,139, English 2,924; Litchfield, Jewell 4,257, English 4,116; Tolland, Jewell 2,003, English 1,700. Total—Jewell 45,-784; English, 45,674. Jewell's majority, 110. The towns yet to hear from are Deron, Columbia, Union Warren and Harland. These towns voting as last year, Jewell's majority will be 104. Kellogg, Republican, is elected to Congress in the 2d District by 20 majority.

Later Returns—A Complete Republican Victory.

HARTFORD, April 3.—The Senate now stands thirteen Republicans to eight Democrats. The House will be Republican by a small majority.

CALIFORNIA.

From San Francisco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 4.—The Board of Supervisors last evening adopted a resolution accepting Colonel Von Schmidt's proposition to introduce water from Lake Tahoe, furnishing the city 4,-000,000 gallons daily for forty years, in return for five million six per cent. bonds, deliverable when the water is ready to supply the city.

A proposition to have a committee appointed to examine Blue Lake and report on a plan for bringing water to the city, was referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Rudolphe and Joseph Dion played one private game—American carom, 750 points—last evening, for $100. Rudolphe's largest run, 144; Dion's, 213. The game stood at the conclusion—Rudolphe, 750; Dion, 723. Average of former, 30; latter, 28.

POLITICAL NOTES.

On the 25th March at the municipal election in Marysville (Cal.) the Republican candidates were elected by strong majorities. The vote was about two to one.

Says the New York Herald: "If Gov. Hoffman would only electrify the State by vetoing some of the last jobs involving millions of dollars to the State, how it would add to his popularity!" Yes, but he won't do it. The jobbers own him and he is forced to do their bidding.

The dispatches give an account of an overwhelming Republican triumph in Cincinnati at the municipal election on Monday last. The victory is the more notable from the fact that some bolting Republicans united with the Democrats on a fusion ticket. The Republican party throughout the country is becoming aroused, and proposes to let the Ku Klux Democracy know that it means to hold the Government and run the country. Republican apathy gave the Democrats a little victory in New Hampshire, but that is the end of their triumphs.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON CITY.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 18, 1871.

The weather is delightfully warm in this latitude, warmer than the oldest inhabitants here have ever before experienced at this season of the year. No fires are needed in houses to warm them.

ST. PATRICK'S DAY

yesterday was duly observed in Washington. The festival of the Saint was celebrated by the sons of the Emerald Isle by a public procession, and at night the Celtic Club here gave a banquet, to which several distinguished Americans were invited to attend.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Seldom has there been in legislative bodies in this country or any other, such a furor as was exhibited on Thursday in the House of Representatives. But few doubts that both parties were sincere in their opinions relative to the best mode of breaking up the Ku-Klux outrages in the South. But the idea of allowing their ambition for self agrandizement, to throw them into personal quarrels on the floor of the House, is exceedingly impolitic and unbecoming the dignity of a Congressman. Your correspondent has opportunities of knowing things behind the scenes which he feels that it is about time the country should know.

It is not that a few of the most able Republicans of Congress love their country and their party less, but that they love [illegible] more, and in their selfishness, [illegible] the fact that a perfect organization [illegible] of action is all essential to the prosecution of the interest of the cause which [illegible] espouses. A half dozen in the House and about that number in the Senate, of the Republicans might be named, who are at loggerheads, and they improve every opportunity, seemingly, regardless of rules, justice, or party politics, to thrust with venomed wrath their personal missiles.

The Democrats here in Congress now, are thoroughly organized, and feeling the need of party discipline, do not allow old personal feuds to interfere in the carrying out of their well laid schemes to disorganize the Republican party.

Only through the virtue of the progressive ideas of a portion of the American people, and their disgust with the old fogy aristocracy of the leaders of both the Whig and Democratic parties of old, was the Republican parties created; and it is not now to be wondered at, that through lassitude [illegible] portion of the leaders of this [illegible] Democrats should make inroads [illegible] conquered provinces. It is a well [illegible] fact here in Washington that the [illegible] party at present, has no radical [illegible] don't care to have any as long [illegible] can keep such men as Messrs. [illegible] Farnsworth, Bingham, and [illegible] Blaine, in quarrel with each [illegible]

LESS SIGNS OF ACTIVITY

The Democrats [illegible] greatly dislike meeting [illegible] and are, therefore [illegible] final adjournment of [illegible] pects of an immediate adjournment grow less and less every hour. The demand upon Congress by the loyal people of certain portions of the South to provide immediate means to suppress Ku-Klux outrages in their midst, have enlisted the earnest attention of the best minds of both Houses. [illegible] ration, most earnest deliberation," says a Senator to-day to your correspondent, "[illegible] needed, and I would rather remain here a summer, fighting for the right, and to know that the result of my labors would even [illegible] to suppress these monstrous outrages of the South, than to go home."

THE MORSE STATUE.

A joint resolution for the erection in Washington of a statue to the memory of Prof. Morse, of telegraphy fame, was passed in the House yesterday.

THE COMMISSION ON SOUTHERN CLAIMS

has rented suitable office rooms in Washington, where they expect to commence their labors about the first of April. The attention given to the claim agency business on account of the creation of this commission is already perceptible here. There is a large number of claims now in the War Department which will doubtless be referred to this commission, such claims receiving their first attention.

THE CENSUS.

A portion of the preliminary report of the ninth census has just been sent to the Congressional printer. The reports from only three States, Mississippi, Texas and South Carolina yet remains incomplete, and those only in certain districts where the marshals have proven inactive in the performance of their duties.

As the law now in existence regulating the taking of census, neither the Secretary of the Interior nor the Superintendent of the census has any control over the marshals except to act on the reports sent to the Department. They can accept or reject the latter, of course, incurring a great loss of time.

TWO YEARS.

After nearly four years of the worst administration which ever cursed this country, his great "accidency," A. Johnson, retires from the White House, leaving a condition of things most deplorable. The Democratic cry of repudiation was loud in the land, our bonds in Europe were quoted at 82½, and gold was selling in New York at 136. Smuggling was common all along our coasts, and so open that the people did not hesitate to assert that it was connived at by the officials. The revenue laws were everywhere openly and shamelessly evaded or defied by parties whose total disregard or prosecution, too plainly showed that they had nothing to fear from the authorities. United States assessors, collectors, gaugers, and storekeepers seemed to spring from poverty into affluence. The White House had become a stench in the nostrils of the people. Taxes weighed heavily upon the labor and interests of the nation; business men in all parts of the country were fearful and timid, and the great public heart seemed to pant for a change. Such was the condition of affairs in the country when Gen. Grant was invested with the greatest trust connected with the Executive Office of the United States.

Two years have passed since that time and the people naturally and rightfully look around them to see what has been done to correct the evils then so apparent, and in that search find that repudiation has hidden its hydra-head under bonstful cries against taxation, our bonds have advanced in Europe from 82½ to 92½, and gold has for months remained almost stationary at 110, having declined 26 cents. Smuggling has been, to such to extent, suppressed by displacing corrupt officials by honest men, that the revenue from customs has been increased upwards of thirty millions of dollars per annum. Rascality has been paralyzed by the efficiency of internal revenue officers, and the increase in the collection of revenue, over that of Johnson's administration upon the same basis of taxation, has been upwards of eighty millions of dollars. The amount collected has been so judiciously expended that nearly one hundred and sixty millions of dollars of the National debt has been paid, and the annual interest thereon stopped, making an annual saving in the item of interest alone of upwards of ten millions of dollars in gold. The decrease in the cost of assessing and collecting the revenue, has been as marked as the increase in collections, having been reduced from four and four-tenths per cent. under Johnson, to three and two-tenths [illegible]. Farmers to the extent of [illegible] of dollars have been taken off [illegible] industries of the country, and [illegible] taxes have been abolished, [illegible] ...ning to fermented liquo[illegible] ...ced. A Sudden Check

Reactionists of every degree who have been shouting themselves hoarse for several weeks over the supposed inevitable disintegration of the Republican party may profitably study the returns of the election in Connecticut which are presented in the dispatches of to-day From these returns they may receive a hint that will bring them back to sober reflection

Last year the Democrats carried Connecticut by eight hundred and forty three majority This year they were perfectly certain of a triumph The Republican party they asserted, was falling to pieces, New Hampshire was lost the summer imbroglio would cost the party thousands of votes in every State Republicans everywhere were disgusted with the administration, President Grant was becoming unpopular and his measures were odious to the country, and Democracy would go on from conquering to conquest till the whole country was "redeemed" But suddenly this delightful programme receives a check by the Republicans carrying a State that was Democratic last year, and one that Democrats were perfectly sure would be theirs on this occasion by several thousand majority.

The dispatches leave no question that the Republicans have carried the State, though the majorities are small Without doubt they have elected three of the four Congressmen, viz Stong in the First District, Kellogg in the Second and Starkweather in the Third It may be supposed that the Democrats have elected the Congressmen in the Fourth District The Republicans have the Legislature

The election shows that confidence in the Republican party is undiminished It proves that the loss of New Hampshire a few weeks ago resulted from Republican apathy and local dissensions, and that it should have been construed as no indication whatever that the Republican party of the country was breaking up The Sumner affair has had its effect It no longer possesses any significance The people are fully determined not to place the Democratic party in power Witness the glowing Republican triumph in Cincinnati which is also reported in to-day's dispatches These events will serve to give notice to Democrats that the Republican party, over whose alleged demise they have been delivering premature funeral orations, propose still to control the country It is at this moment as strong as at any former period in its history Our Democratic friends know by experience what that strength is

The President's Vindication

The statements telegraphed throughout the country embodying the President's views in the San Domingo question and published in the dispatches of yesterday are a signal vindication of the President's sagacity and the purity of his intentions. He is not pressing the annexation of San Domingo and has not decided to do So But he was charged with improper action in the preliminary negotiations and instructed the appointment of a Commission to make a full investigation concerning the action and his policy would then be fully vindicated This investigation has been made, and he will now give the result thereof to the country. His own official and private action is cleared of the charges which were made by the tongues of malevolence and slander, he adheres to his former views as to the policy of annexation, and his views are sustained by the members of his own administration but he leaves the whole matter to Congress without further recommending that if the country desires the consummation of the treaty the representatives of the people will take favorable action upon it. He repeats the golden maxim that he will have no policy to enforce against the will of the people.

All those who have been hounding after the President on this theme will now see that a predicament they are in They have ripped up his motives and vilified his conduct with a zest but by the simple and yet very wise course which he is taking he is compelled indicating himself and placing them in indefensible and unenviable position before the country The leaders of this crowd of him will now find themselves in a sorry plight He will command the confidence of the country and they who have raised this storm will be objects of profound contempt

The full report of the Commissioners has not been published, but enough has been given out in regard to it to leave no doubt that its conclusions will be All the New York papers of both parties have published long reports from special correspondents who accompanied the Commission A very remarkable fact is the substantial agreement of the correspondents, even though they represent papers which hold hostile positions on the San Domingo question Mr Hurlbut, the accomplished journalist, represented the Republican organ, the New York Tribune and his letters, it cannot but be admitted justify the course of the President He says the "Commissioners will report with enthusiasm," and adds that "it would, indeed, be difficult for them to report otherwise" And he clinches his testimony by saying "Any opposition to the annexation of the island which rests upon a doubt of its intrinsic value as a possession is simply absurd" Correspondents of the other papers substantially agree with the World's writer

The high character of the Commissioners is a guarantee to the country that the report will be able, truthful and just Dr Howe, one of the members, is as ardent an annexationist as Mr Wade, and as he is the particular friend of Senator Sumner, his views will have weight with those who have followed that Senator's lead in opposing the President's course in this affair

One of these correspondents brings out one of the results of the investigation which should set at rest a batch of calumnies. He says

> The concessions to individuals, companies, etc, of grants of land and privileges are few in number and unimportant, except one, that to the New York Geographical Company of one-fifth of all the public lands for making surveys, maps, etc Some others of little consequence have been made, but none whatever to General Babcock, or to any of the President's friends These are the facts, although it is unnecessary to give them, as nobody can reasonably believe that President Grant or any of his household is interested pecuniarily in any matters relating to the island President Baez, it is true, made a tender of a large tract of land (his object is not known) to General Babcock, and the Baez has confessed But General Babcock indignantly declined, and thus the matter stands

The President is coming out of this affair triumphantly, and will put to shame and to silence all his traducers Whether the act of annexation shall be consummated or not, he will be vindicated before the country and will retain his high place in the esteem of the Republican party

The Herald says that the result of the school meeting here on Monday evening was a "Democratic triumph." And yesterday we heard a good many gleeful expressions from Democrats over the result Evidently the splendor of the Republican triumph in Connecticut must pale before this "Democratic victory in Portland" It is so very smart to go round during the day preceding the school meeting and hire a lot of fellows whom the Herald has denominated "thieves and vagabonds to attend the meeting, and by their aid elect a "straight Democratic ticket" We noticed that those who were thus hired by some of the officers elect, filed out of the room as soon as they had deposited their ballots, and made a bee line for the nearest place where the "drinks were to be had Such a "Democratic triumph can always be purchased by an expenditure say of fifty dollars unless Republicans and respectable Democrats are more vigilant than they were on Monday evening

Some of the California papers continue to grumble about the grant of lands to the Northern Pacific and Oregon railroads as an unjustifiable squandering of the public domain This objection does not come with a good grace from that source The railroads of California which give her the splendid advantages she enjoys, were built by Government subsidies of land and bonds, and Oregon is now helping to pay interest on the bonds that built California's railroads Isn't it rather selfish in California to grumble when Oregon and other parts of the country receive for railroad purposes a little help in lands—not money or bonds? We commend this view of the case to the Sacramento Union.

A Brief Letter from Salem

EDITOR OREGONIAN

Sir—The Herald seems to have a sample way of putting things In speaking of the Holbert case it says in effect,—

Holbert "unconsciously" mixed a barrel of whisky and a barrel of sugar, and sold the compound by the drink through the nozzle of a soda fountain, labelled by way of disguise "Don't Care"

Now strike out "unconsciously" and insert "unconscientiously," and the statement will do. CONSCIOUS

OREGON.

Messrs P. Dearborn and Rufus Mallory have been elected School Directors at Salem, and C P. Stratton has been elected Clerk.

The number of school districts reported in Douglas county is 43 Number of scholars reported, 2,372. Amount of county funds, $50 072

The Monmouth Messenger says three new firms have gone into business at Independence this winter, and the place is prosperous and improving

The Roseburg Plaindealer urges the farmers of Douglas county, in view of the proposed improvement of navigation on the Umpqua river, to sow grain

We learn from the Gazette that the Corvallis College opened its third term last week with seventy five pupils, and a prospect of fifteen to twenty more, which is encouraging.

From the Statesman Governor Woods has sold his fine mansion to Mr. Alfred Stanton, the latter transferring to him in payment sixty three acres of prairie land fronting north on the road that passes east from the Fair ground, two miles from this city, and a tract of thirty acres of timber land, that is distant from the first named tract about a mile and a half The land is all valuable and will become more so in a few years.

From the Statesman A gentleman who used to live here, now resides at Portland, while the woman who used to be his wife, lives here in a destitute way, so he visited Salem yesterday and borrowed his child, aged two years, to get some clothes made to fit, but having possession he carried the boy to Portland to have him under better influences The mother was disconsolate, but the child is in better hands

Vigilance Committee in Virginia City.

ARTHUR PERKINS HEFFNAN TAKEN FROM JAIL AND HANGED—THE SHERIFF AND HIS DEPUTIES OVERPOWERED—DETERMINATION TO EXPEL DANGEROUS CHARACTERS.

[From the Gold Hill News March 25th]

It is well known to the public that a Vigilance Committee has had an organization in Virginia City for some weeks past, the many murders, robberies and diabolical acts of incendiarism having caused many citizens to adopt measures for the better protection of their lives and their property than the law and its administration afforded, by reason of the existence in our midst of a large number of irresponsible vagabonds, who have made Storey county their headquarters

Beyond the capture of William Wills from the city calaboose about ten days ago, on the charge of setting fire to Piper's Opera House, and his confession to the Committee, in which he charged Arthur Perkins Heffnan as the ringleader of the gang of incendiaries, the Committee have taken no other action that we know of until last night, the particulars of which we have learned from Sheriff Atkinson and under Sheriff Stoner

'A short time before 1 o'clock this morning, a small army of about eighty armed men—armed with guns, bayonets and pistols—presented themselves in front of the county jail on B street, a portion of them being detailed who stood guard in the rear of the jail, on A street. Thirty men entered and forced open the wooden and glass sash door which led into the office of the jail. This door was locked, but sprung open with a little force. As soon as this door was open, the Committee appeared at the door of the small bed-chamber where the Sheriff and under Sheriff slept, and giving a knock, it was opened—and a dozen men entered the bed-chamber, presenting weapons at the officers, remarking that "they came for Perkins" and demanded the keys to the cell

This demand was made of under Sheriff Stoner, to which he replied that he would not give them up as he was a sworn officer of the law, and could not do it Some of the party then commenced searching the beds, the officers' clothing desks, etc while a portion of them stood guard over the officers with drawn weapons (Sheriff Atkinson evidently struggled with the guard, as we noticed that he had his left eye in mourning

The Vigilantes at last found the keys and a portion of them went for the prisoner, while some of them stood guard over the officers They evidently knew the cell Perkins was in, as they unlocked no others Perkins, we presume, was ordered to dress himself, which he did and surrounded by vigilantes, all of whom are said to have been masked, they left the jail, detailing a guard of six men, who remained keeping watch over the officers

Passing out at the rear end of the jail upon A street, the Vigilantes marched with their prisoner to Sutton, thence up to the Ophir mine, where there is a one story frame building standing, formerly used for mining purposes A beam extends some ten feet out from this building, attached to which is a thick rope with a short chain fastened to the end of it and under this beam and rope is a cut or trackway through the earth about six feet in depth, with another trackway for ore cars above it at the surface of the cut

On the top of this track laid a board, upon which the victim was made to stand, while the Vigilantes, evidently not caring to make use of the dangling rope aforesaid, threw another rope they had brought over the beam, and adjusted the end about Perkins neck The board on the track was then evidently knocked from under him, and Perkins swung into the track-way, hanging by the neck, and passed into eternity—almost as quick as his poor victim William Smith recently did with the deadly bullet crashing through his brains

At an early hour Coroner Symons and undertaker Wilson, receiving notice of this transaction went to the place with a coffin, in which the dead body was placed and carried to the undertaker's on B street, a few doors south of the County Jail, where we saw it at 9 o'clock The features were pale in death, and did not indicate that he was choked or strangled, but rather that his death was instantaneous

B street, in the neighborhood of the undertaker's and the county jail, was crowed with people during this forenoon—the public curiously to view the body of the victim and find out all about the circumstances being intense

Whatever may be the sentiment of the mass of the community as regards this act of meting out summary justice to this assassin and incendiary we cannot but deplore this outrage upon the law and its officers We interviewed Sheriffs Atkinson and Stoner at an early hour this morning and we cannot help believing that the community will hold them blameless, as they resisted the Vigilantes as best they could under the circumstances

Having no reason to apprehend such a visit last night (as the Grand Jury will sit on Monday next, whose duty it would have been to make a full examination into all criminal matters), the officers were taken entirely by surprise and had not provided any extra guards over the jail

As well might be supposed, the great topic of conversation and excitement in this summary action of the Vigilance Committee last night From the fact however, of their not molesting any other prisoners on this occasion, we presume their object is accomplished and that their extra judical functions will now cease 'All is well that ends well

PERKINS' CRIME

The crime for which Perkins was under arrest was murder The circumstances are substantially as follows

His victim was a man named William Smith, who at the time was standing at the International Saloon, leaning upon the counter of the cigar stand Two or three persons were near Perkins approached him, saying, "What do you want, or what are you after?" He replied, 'I don't know as I want any thing,' and at the same moment Perkins speaking very excitedly and quickly, and drawing a Colt's six shooter as he spoke, said, "How do you want it?" firing as he finished the words Smith staggered back a step or two and fell on his back dead, close to the door The ball entered the left eye, passing out at the top of his head As the victim fell, Perkins stepped back, exclaiming "By G—d, I fetched him," but directly, coming to a better appreciation of the horrible deed he had perpetrated, stepped forward, saying, "My God I didn't mean that" Perkins was immediately arrested and taken to the station house, where he remarked to Chief Downey "I give myself up to you, I have killed a man, and it was an accident, I didn't mean to kill him"

Perkins' real name is Arthur Perkins Hoffman—about 25 years of age, a piano player and was one of the fighting army of occupation in the water right war in Seven Mile Canyon Smith was a native of London, England, aged about 32

CITY.

THE DRAMA OF "PAUL PRY."—Among the popular standard dramas, there are few which rank above the comedy of "Paul Pry" in the popular estimation. It is one of those sterling English comedies in which, by a happy delineation of a peculiar class of characters to be found in all communities, struck the popular fancy and excited much in the same way as the same result was produced by some of Dickens' stories. The character of Paul Pry was suggested by an anecdote of a lady living in a narrow street, had passed much of her time in watching the affairs of her neighbors that she acquired the power of distinguishing the sound of every knocker within hearing. She fell ill and was confined to her bed unable to observe what was going on without, and employed a maid at the window as a substitute for the performance of that duty. Such questions as this were continually going on: "Betty, what are you thinking about? Don't I hear a double knock at No 9? Who is it?" "The first floor lodger, ma'am." "Betty! Betty! I declare, I must give you warning, Betty! don't you tell me what that knock is at No 9." "Why, Lord, ma'am! its only the baker with a pint." "Pint! Betty! what can they want with a pint at 5? They had pins yesterday! Are you sure it was only one of a class and Paul Pry was the characterization of the class. The comedy is original in plot, character and dialogue. It was first played at Haymarket Theater, London, and it is said that when the first cast was made, Liston, then a star, objected to Paul Pry, saying that the character was a mere excrescence on the main plot, and yet upon the presentation of which Paul Pry leaped at once into public favor and has ever since maintained that place unchallenged. Mr Liston, afterward, made a large portion of a splendid fortune through his personation of the character. The comedy has been announced for Mr J H Vinson's benefit, this evening, and Mr Vinson will appear as Paul Pry. The character is well suited to his peculiar vein of talent.

GOV FOR UTAH.—Governor George L Woods, with his family, took his departure yesterday by the steamer for San Francisco, and thence for Salt Lake City, where he goes to assume the duties of the office of Governor of Utah Territory. The State of Oregon has filled a more conspicuous place in the public eye than he has for the last ten years, during which time he has made for himself a fame far wider than the boundaries of the State. No man has been more vilely and unjustly attacked by his political enemies, and he has maintained with stronger will and firmer convictions of right and proper politics. He is now placed in a position of very great authority where, if he succeeds, he will greatly enlarge his reputation for administrative ability. We do not doubt that he will govern with firmness and without entanglement with any of the influences which have made that Territory so uncomfortable for Governors. He will be in a position, too, to befriend Oregon greatly and we need not entertain a doubt about what he will do in that direction upon opportunity.

PASSENGERS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.—The N P S Co's steamship Oriflamme, BoNes, Commander, sailed at 4 30, yesterday afternoon, for San Francisco with the following list of passengers: J Woodworth, Richard Bartle, Charles Hall and wife, Miss and child Chauncey Gifford and wife, Miss, wife and child, E M Watts and wife, Mrs Barnes, J B Moores, C L Luisley, Chas Good, Mrs A Todd and wife, H L Jester, R Robinson, Rev W E Smith, P F Pearne, W [illegible] 2d), Miss Martin, James Brusie, J S [illegible], D L Hudsborough, Mrs Breyman, Mrs [illegible], Geo Go L Woods, wife and child, Dell [illegible], J B Price, J H Lappeus, J B Kaser, G S Parshall, J Williams, Miss E Brown, Miss N McConnell, Miss Annie Gilbert, W L [illegible], W G Foster (W F & Co's messenger), and 34 in the steerage.

FOR THE ORIFLAMME.—The steamer Oriflamme, which sailed yesterday afternoon for San Francisco, took away the following freights: [illegible] & Co 330 qr sks flour, Portland Flouring Mill Co, 2,000 qr sks flour, [illegible] Bros 20 pkgs skins and furs, Allen & Lewis, 1,213 bxs apples and 4,272 qr sks flour, [illegible] R R Co, 27 bales wool, W. Gallick, 1 pkg specimens, Everding & Beebe, 197 sks potatoes, 15 sks bacon and 104 sks onions, P. T Nicholas, 1,000 qr sks flour, G W Vaughn, 3,700 qr sks flour, J McCraken & Co, 552 bxs apples, [illegible] shippers, 65 bxs eggs, Higgins & Smith, bacon, various shippers, 249 bxs apples, [illegible] Co, 215 pkgs hides and skins. Total, 300 tons.

FUNERAL PREPARATIONS.—The remains of Mr [illegible] are expected to arrive on the next trip from San Francisco. The Masonic Lodge of which he was a member, held a meeting on Monday evening and appointed committees to make arrangements for the reception of the remains and the conduct of the funeral exercises. The Committee of Arrangements, Sam E Murphy, David Cole, J E Strong, M. L Chrisman and T H Reynolds. Committee on Resolutions, O J Carr, T. McF. Patton and John Kelly. Committee to receive the remains at Portland, A A McCully, H. M. Thatcher, R W Thompson and F N Shurtleff.

"HILL TILLICUM."—When the steamer went down the bay yesterday, and everybody was waving the handkerchief, a siwash was observed on the deck vigorously waving his hat and occasionally giving vent to an encouraging whoop. He called at somebody on the steamer and asked him if any of his tillicums were on board. Continuing to wave his hat, he sang out, Nawitka, nika tillicum klatawah—Chinamen! Me all same oregon Boston man! And the abergwins was the last seen to abandon the exchange of friendly signals and his departing friend.

PASSENGERS FOR THE NORTH.—The N P T Co's steamship California sailed at 3 P M yesterday for Victoria and Puget Sound. The following is her list of passengers: F Kinnaid, Mrs L Chaboret, Mrs M S Scott and child, Miss Mary Clark, Mrs Shehans, T A Wright, S P Hadlong, Mr A Francis, C Barnard, W K Blanchard, Mrs McGinley, Miss [illegible]ey, Alice McGinley, M Morris, J Mc[illegible], Harry Smith, Bob McGinley, Tom [illegible], Jno Mains, Chas Evans, William Warren, 2 Dogs, and sixteen in the steerage.

GOING EAST.—The steamer yesterday took away quite a number of people who are going East on a visit, to return during the summer. Among these were Mr. C. Bills and wife and J. Trost of this city, Mr E M Waite and wife, Mr. Walter Smith, and Mrs Breyman of Salem. Mr. J B Keepers, the architect of the railroad bridges of the Oregon and California Railroad, started for Chicago, to remain. Several gentlemen who have been here but a short time taking a look at the country, started, also, upon the return home.

EXPORTS PER CALIFORNIA.—The propeller California took away yesterday the following: 11 cases boots and shoes, 60 cs bacon and hams, 5 cases saltes, 11 bbls beef, 203 bxs candles, 19 cs coal oil, 39 pkgs furniture, 3,972 qr sks flour, 22 kegs lard, 7 cs lard oil, 1,634 pkgs mdse, 177 kegs nails, 1,463 sks middlings, 54 sks oats, 8 bbls pork, 222 bxs soap, 112 sks wheat.

THE BALL.—The annual ball at Turn Verein Hall, given by the members of Concordia Grove No 2 O D, last evening, was a very pleasant affair for all who participated. The effect of the illumination of the room under the blaze of the gas, was very striking and beautiful. The dancers spent a happy evening.

LECTURE.—Prof G M Hoopengarner will lecture to-night at Philharmonic Hall on 'Success in Life.' That is just exactly what everybody in this world is looking for, and if the Professor knows how it is to be achieved, everybody will be much obliged to him.

THE "CHIEF" GOES.—Chief Lappeus went away yesterday on the steamer to visit San Francisco, Sacramento and possibly some of the other cities of California. He expects to be absent about three or four weeks.

EXPRESS.—A train of several wagons with furniture and household goods drove down on the wharf of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company's wharf yesterday bound for Eastern Oregon. It looked much like the old times.

[illegible] & Co.—Another lot of Clatsop Chums and the last spring Chinook Salmon received last night at Gosser's. Don't forget the Union Fish Market to-day.

AMUSEMENTS.

CONCERT.—Mr J H Stinson, who performed violin solos very acceptably to the audience at two recent concerts, assisted by quite a number of ladies and gentlemen, will give a vocal and instrumental concert at Philharmonic Hall next Saturday evening.

SOCIABLE.—There will be a sociable at the basement of the Baptist church this evening, under the management of the ladies of that society.

ONE FINE THEATER.—The presentation of "East Lynne," last evening, had the effect to attract a large and fine audience notwithstanding the rain which was falling during the early part of the evening. The drama was enacted admirably, too nearly every character being well sustained. The personation of the dual character of Lady Isabel and Madame Vine was one of Mrs Bates most successful efforts. She renders the two characters which are quite opposed to each other, very finely indeed, and never fails to win the most hearty approval of her audiences. Mr Bates gave a fine presentation of Archibald Carlyle. Miss Minnie Pixley made quite a success of Cornelia. The other characters were carried well or creditably by the other members of the company, and the play went off in a very satisfactory manner.

THE COURTS.

TUESDAY, April 4, 1871.

COUNTY COURT—HAMILTON, JUDGE—In Probate.—In the matter of the guardianship of Noah Huber deceased, O Risley, guardian, presented his final account which was approved, guardian discharged and sureties exonerated.

The United States Loan

[From the New York Tribune.]

That the United States are amply able to pay the public debt, and have given to the world the most solemn pledge that it shall be fully and faithfully paid, no one can doubt who is acquainted with the state of public opinion, or with the Constitution itself, which provides that the obligations of the United states shall not be impaired while, on the other hand, the debt incurred in maintaining the rebellion shall not be assumed or paid, either by the States individually or by the nation. There is but one danger to which the public was formerly exposed. It was discovered in the early years of the war, and has been more fully developed by later experience. Formerly it was the practice of the Treasury Department to manufacture the public securities at Washington by persons employed in the printing bureau, and the result of this experiment was not satisfactory to the Treasury Department, to Congress, or to those who were interested in Government issues. It was so obviously subject to great abuse that it was condemned by the joint investigating committee of the House and Senate, in their ample report of March 3, 1869, and by the report of the Hon George S Boutwell, Secretary of the Treasury, who stated, in substance, that for the purpose of giving the highest degree of security against a repetition of the unfortunate irregularities disclosed in the committee report, he had adopted the plan, which had been also sanctioned by that committee—namely, to have all the Treasury securities so prepared as to require at least three imprints upon every piece of paper, one to be made at one bank-note engraving company, of unquestioned responsibility, a second imprint to be made by another of such companies—both of which should be wholly disconnected with the Treasury department, and in a different city, and the last imprint to be made by the printing bureau in the Treasury at Washington. All paper to be used was to manufactured at still a third and distant point, to be delivered under special safeguards, and to be of a peculiar character. The paper manufacturer and the two companies thus become guards upon each other and upon the employees in the printing bureau, and the printing bureau a guard over them, and thus all probable chances of over issues, duplication or other fraud seemed avoided. This plan of manufacturing the Government securities, which, as stated in his official report, has been adopted by the Secretary, has met with the approbation of all financial men who are acquainted with the subject, and has justly secured among capitalists a feeling of confidence that there is little danger of their waking up some years hence to find their vaults filled with false and duplicate bonds, which might be repudiated by the Government, though printed from genuine plates and issued from its printing bureau. Some rumors have been started of late that the Secretary proposes to abandon this plan of manufacturing the new bonds, and to return to the scheme which experience has proved so disastrous. We do not credit them, for it is not probable that Mr Boutwell will act contrary to the assurances he has given to the public in his report, or that he will, for any cause, endanger the success of his new loan by diminishing confidence in the safety of his bonds.

A Washington correspondent of the Springfield Republican writes: If Mr Sumner had been less insolent in his treatment of the President in the Senate debate he could not have been removed without destruction to the political fortunes of Gen Grant. As it is the removal will not affect Mr Sumner's standing or influence in the Senate, nor will it necessarily ruin Gen Grant's prospects for re election.

Go to O Neil & Co's, if you want a coat
Made of wool, from the finest sheep or Cashmere goat,
Or the best fitting pants for the nicest vest—
There's where you will always get the very best
They have all kinds of goods that gentlemen need,
Cloth silk cashmere before them I tweed—
If you'll all get a suit and pluk down the cash
They'll sell to you cheap if it breaks them to smash!

To whom it may concern: May it be known that whenever Congress of the United States of our glorious Republic reduces the price of postage stamps, I will promise to reduce the price of paper collars to less than Twenty five Cents a box, and I have also on hand one of the largest stocks of Clothing and Gents Furnishing Goods in the city of Portland and defy competition. Isaac Barman, corner First and Alder streets. Odd Fellows Temple.

SPRING STYLES.—KOHN & FISHEL as usual are the first to fill their store with the new Spring Styles of Clothing and Furnishing Goods. Their stock is very large, and their goods of the best quality, and latest styles. Messrs. Kohn & Fishel buy their goods in large quantities, consequently, get them at low rates and can afford to sell cheap, which they intend to do.

They respectfully invite their friends and patrons to give them a call.

IF YOU FEEL dull, drowsy, despondent, debilitated, have frequent headache, mouth tastes badly, poor appetite, and tongue coated, you are suffering from torpid liver, or "Biliousness." Nothing will cure you so speedily and permanently as Dr Pierce's Alt. Ext. or Golden Medical Discovery. It also cures all severe lingering Coughs, and tones up and strengthens the whole system. Sold by druggists. To avoid Counterfeits see that Dr Pierce's private U S Government Stamp is on the outside wrapper.

THE ORIGIN OF LONGFELLOW'S EVANGELINE.—Hawthorne dined one day with Longfellow, and brought with him a friend from Salem. After dinner the friend said "I have been trying to persuade Hawthorne to write a story, based upon a legend of Acadia and still current there, the legend of a girl who, in the dispersion of the Acadians was separated from her lover, and passed her life in waiting and seeking for him, and only found him dying in a hospital when both were old." Longfellow wondered that the legend did not strike the fancy of Hawthorne, and said to him "If you have really made up your mind not to use it for a story will you give it to me for a poem?" To this Hawthorne assented and moreover promised not to treat the subject in prose till Longfellow had seen what he could do with it in verse. And so we have "Evangeline" in beautiful hexameters—a poem that will hold its place in literature while true affection lasts. Hawthorne rejoiced in this great success of Longfellow, and loved to count up the editions, both foreign and American, of this now world renowned poem.—Atlantic.

From the Monitor of Material Interests, at Brussels, we learn that the total amount of loans issued by the various countries of the world during 1870, was $1 142 335,805. Of this amount France borrowed $354,568,520, Prussia, $246,070,650, Great Britain, $83 871,685, and the United States, $36,764,000.

A TERRIFYING CRY.—In Sacramento, recently, a Copperhead paper exclaimed, "Democrats be up and doing!" Thereat, says the Oakland News, 'the terrified women ran out locked their hen houses, and stripped their clothes lines.'

BARBOUR'S LINEN THREAD is strong and even, and is superior to any other in the market. Try it and be convinced of its superiority.

BARBOUR'S CARPET THREAD, made from the finest quality of IRISH FLAX, is stronger, better and cheaper than any other.

Be Guided by what you Know.
There is an old proverb which says, Experience is the safest guide." To this guide the sick and ailing naturally turn when casting about for the means of relief. They inquire what a medicine has done for others, before they adopt it themselves. Of all the remedies and preventives in use, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters meets the test most triumphantly, and hence its immense popularity and vast sales. The sufferer from indigestion is sure to find some one among his friends who has been cured of that ailment by the famous vegetable stomachic. The victim of fever and ague, liver complaint, constipation, nervous prostration or general debility, has only to make inquiry in the neighborhood where he resides in order to discover what this standard restorative has effected in cases similar to his own. In the published testimony to its merits he will find a volume of proofs of its sanitary properties, which it is impossible for his common sense to resist. He tries it and the effect it produces on his system adds another to the host of witnesses in its favor. Thus, its reputation, founded on facts not assertions, continually grows and spreads. Charlatans and impostors, some of them mere local tricksters, and others who take a somewhat wider range, attempt to thrust into the hands and down the throats of invalids their haphazard concoctions as substitutes for the tonic which for so many years has been a medicinal staple throughout the United States, Spanish America, Canada and the West Indies but only succeed to a very limited extent. In this reasoning age the people having ascertained what is really deserving of their confidence, decline running after strange gods."

THE TEMPERANCE CAUSE.

TO THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF OREGON

The baneful effects of intemperance upon the morality of the people and the body politic of the State of Oregon, demand the earnest attention of her citizens

As a blight upon the morality, in destroying lives, ruining souls, producing misery, and in causing sickness, sorrow, hunger and nakedness, instead of health, happiness and plenty, it surpasses all others and becomes the overshadowing evil of our country

The political evils that result from the liquor traffic, are a serious and growing cause of alarm It is a lamentable fact that a larger portion of our tax burden is the result of intemperance, and that it peoples the receptacles for criminals at our Capital and the various county seats; that it is vastly instrumental in burdening the State with the support of the insane at our Asylums, and the poor and destitute in our several counties, more than two-thirds of the cases in our criminal dockets, in police, justice and circuit courts are directly or indirectly, as its effects, make the capital worse than wasted in its passage time that is lost, the homes that are desolated, the bright prospects that are blighted, the many citizens of our young State who are being annually ruined, the fights and street brawls that disgrace many communities, and the powerful yet pernicious influences that this monster evil exerts on the enactment of the various laws of our Statute books, on the customs and usages of the people at large, and the action of the ballot-box—all these things steadily growing, and each succeeding month and year, becoming more frightfully alarming and proportionately harder to overcome, even aside from the immense social and moral degeneracy to which it is continually giving rise, calls upon the citizens of our State to rise in their might and endeavor to stay its fearful ravages. And as this evil cannot cease unless something is done to stop its progress promptly and decisively,

Therefore, we the undersigned, having been called for that purpose, do hereby issue a call to the temperance people of the State of Oregon to meet in Convention in Salem, on the fourth day of June, 1871

The object of this Convention will be to take such notes, discuss principles, to secure concert of action on the part of the different temperance elements in our State, and to devise measures for the enactment of such laws as are necessary to aid in driving the tempter from our midst We would especially urge upon all Christian churches, Ecclesiastical bodies, temperance organizations, etc, to send delegates upon all temperance men and women connected with such organizations, and at such times and places as may best suit them and choose delegates who will assemble at their counsels and views

Let us come together as citizens having the same interests at our young State and the future welfare of the temperance cause at heart and secure a united and determined action on the part of the co-workers in this great reform

B McClane, Salem, Jacob Conser, Jefferson Roberts, Portland; Hyer Jackson Hinsdale, E. W. Ryan, Portland, W. Harrisburg; C B Boland, Jefferson Dimmick, Needy, S W Shrum, Wilson J. B. SCHOOL GROUNDS.

The present school law provides that School Directors when authorized by a majority vote of the district may purchase, lease or build school houses and buy or lease lands for school purposes

The lands specified evidently mean sites for school houses—not fields or farms.

The practical question is, how much ground ought to be laid off for the school building, out buildings and play ground? In large cities, in which land is very costly almost all the ground is covered by the whole building, in which rooms are provided for physical exercise, and apparatus and gymnasium and other needed uses are provided for this is, that the air and light within any building cannot be so pure and good or healthful as that without. In new cities of moderate size as Portland, it is comparatively easy and economical to secure an entire block for the grounds of a single school. This policy of our wise Boards of Directors has proved wise. It has given children ample room for play, the best light and air without and within the building, and has kept the schools as free as possible from contact with the houses and grounds of neighboring families, which has also proved to be a mutual benefit. The evil of the opposite policy is seen and felt in the small block occupied by the Harrison street school. The value and comfort of that school and of the houses there, are alike diminished

It is to be hoped that the city will authorize the directors to pursue the liberal policy of purchasing full blocks of lots for all of our future public schools A block, with the streets on all sides, gives an open area of 110,200 square feet or 2 26 40 acres. In this proportion the children in the country, which are much small or than in the city, need a full acre, and even two acres would not suffice. The object is to let children have room enough for their health and their spirits without annoying neighbors or being annoyed

Trees ought to be well chosen for views, for currents and sunlight. A free circulation and bright sun, will quickly carry off malarious vapors, prevent contagion, and render rooms more healthful in the most sultry day, while a fine grove of forest and mountain, will impress and indelibly upon a child's mind, render him more cheerful and happy, improve his taste, refine his manners, and aid in various ways in mental and moral culture. The high and beautiful grove of the Bush street, or Denman School, in San Francisco, overlooking the city, the bay and the magnificent bay, the hills and mountains adds very much to the value and attractiveness of that school. But while children need shade they also need shade trees It requires from 40 years for our transplanted maple to afford much shade and fifteen for the elm. As the older forests are all cut away, or liable to be, we cannot too early in surrounding our school ground with trees that in time will afford grateful shade on a hot summer noon Our present municipal law has provided for this in the city, but experience has proved country districts, would do well two years ago to enclose their school and set it with shade trees, upon completing their cheerful looking school house.

As much as possible, grass plots should be laid out and graded within school grounds This is a difficult matter, for the plays of children seem to have no rule but the utmost freedom, but it may be possible, in large grounds, to save some spots in the corners, and along the fences and walks, for grass

Our wet winters make it needful to have some well graveled plots, as well as good plank walks, to the entrances, and around the buildings Small school yards are planked in some places, which give pupils opportunity for exercise in calisthenics, military drills, swings, ball and marble playing, and which contributes to their cleanliness, and to that of the rooms

School grounds are a part of the teacher's domain as much as school rooms Two teachers, in the large schools, a gentleman and lady, should always oversee the pupils, during recess and intermission, on the play grounds, or in any base ment, or other room appropriated to recreation The boys, under the care of a gentleman, should have their section, and the girls, under the care of a lady, should have theirs. In no other way can the quarrels, or bad words, or vexatious and oppressive conduct of older, and stronger pupils, or the wrongs of weaker, and more timid ones, or unnatural tendencies be checked or repressed, and the best manners and habits be cultivated. The most common evils of our schools, and the chief complaints, arise from the rude, wild, improper and sometimes reckless conduct of a few pupils during recess and intermission. Good order in the play ground will secure it in the recitation room Whether high fences should separate the two sections, depends somewhat upon the plan of the house, and the separation of the sexes into rooms by themselves. But teachers, for their own sake, as well as that of the pupils, ought to be present with them in their recreations. With such oversight, they will ensure higher character for their schools, and command for them greater respect and confidence.

G H ATKINSON,
Sup't Schools Multnomah County.

"Hoos, I've Got You Now"—Some years ago an eccentric genius, Rev. Thomas P Hunt, used to give temperance lectures One night he announced that he would lecture in Easton Now temperance was not in favor among the male portion of that burg The women, however, were all for the 'pledge,' and consequently on Hunt's first night not a man showed himself in the hall The benches were pretty well filled with women though, and Hunt commenced but instead of temperance, he put them through on the vanities of dress, etc. They wore great stuffed feather sleeves then. They (the sleeves) caught it. Then their tight lacing, and so on through the whole catalogue of female follies, not a word about temperance And the ladies went home happing mad, and told their husbands about it and voted old Hunt down to the lowest notch

He had announced that he would lecture at the same place next night. Long before the time appointed they commenced to come, and when Hunt hobbled down the aisle, the building was comfortably filled with men The old fellow looked about, chuckled, and muttered, "Hogs, I've got you now!" The audience started "Aha, hogs, I've got you now"

After the crowd had got quiet a little, the lecturer rose and said

"Friends, you want to know what I mean by saying, 'Hogs, I've got you now,' and I'll tell you Out West the hogs run wild, and when folks get out of meat they catch a young pig, put a strap round under his body, and hitch him to a sapling that will just swing him from the ground nicely. Of course he squeals and raises a rumpus, when all the hogs gather around to see what's the matter, and then they shoot them at leisure. Last night I hung them a pig up, I hurt it a little, and it squealed The old hogs have turned out to see the fun, and I'll roast you," and so he did, pitching into their favorite vice with a relish and gusto that can only be appreciated by one who has heard "Old King Alcohol" put through during '46 and '47.

Cheap Water Pipe.

THE ASPHALTUM PRESSURE PIPE COMPANY, of San Francisco, having purchased of the patentees the sole right to manufacture on this coast, are now making an article at their works at Alameda Point, that will supply the general want of a cheap and durable water pipe The invention originated in France, where these pipes are extensively used, as well as in Germany, in fact, all over Europe, almost entirely superseding for all ordinary purposes the use of iron. It is an old thing having been in use twenty years

Its Durability.

Being impenetrable and insensible to atmospheric influences or chemical properties of the earth it never changes, and is consequently much more durable than iron, which corrodes, and in time leaks

It is a Non-Conductor,

And will not freeze except at a remarkably low temperature, and even then its expansive power is greater than that of frozen water In warm weather it acts as a cooler for water passing through it.

Neutrality to Acids and Alkalis.

This pipe is not affected by acids and alkalis, nor is it affected by galvanic currents—consequently is invaluable in conducting telegraph wires under ground through tunnels and under bridges

Elasticity.

The elasticity of this pipe prevents its bursting from outward shocks or concussion The interior of the pipes being glazed, are as smooth as porcelain, and consequently are never clogged by adhering sediment.

Lightness.

The mean weight of these pipes to iron is as one to five, which not only facilitates handling, but reduces the cost of transportation

Laying the Pipe

Is a simple matter—can be laid by any laboring man of ordinary intelligence, but the Company if required will always furnish a competent person, free of expense, to oversee the proper laying of the pipe. Contracts taken for any required length of pipe from water or mining companies, and warranted to stand according to contract

Pipe Under Pressure

Can be seen at the office of the Company We are the only parties manufacturing this pipe on the Pacific Coast under this patent All other offered is spurious and an infringement.

Cheapness.

The cost when laid, including connections, is about one quarter that of lead and one-half that of iron

We manufacture this pipe in lengths of twelve feet, and ship it everywhere, by all sorts of conveyances—no special care being required We manufacture it of any size from one to twelve inches.

Pressure.

We manufacture according to the pressure required from 1 to 600 pounds to the inch, and guarantee it to stand the pressure
